

When They Love You So.

ONE time I'm awful sick in bed,
An' sometimes I'm delirious,
Cuz I got fever in my head,
An' when I'm th' most serious
My pa, he sits beside of me,
An' 'en he rubs my head, an' 'en
He says when I get well, why, he
Won't ever scold his boy again.

An' 'en my ma, she rubs my head,
'Tst burnin' hot, an' 'en her chin
'Tst quivers, an' she says: "Poor Ned!
His little hands so white an' thin!"
An' 'en she says she never knew
How precious 'tst a boy could be,
An' when I'm well she's goin' 't do
'tst what I want her to for me.

An' by an' by my aunts comes
An' says when I get well, why, she
Don't care if I have twenty drums,
An' she will buy a sled for me,
An' my big sister's goin' 't buy
A really pony 'tst as quick
As ever doctor says 'tst I
Am well again from bein' sick.

An' even our old hired man,
Comes in an' stays awhile with me
Wherever doctor says he can,
'tst kind an' gentle as can be,
'Cuz once he had a boy, an' 'en
He had th' fever, an' 'tst's why
He's awful kind to me an' when
He sees me, why, he starts 't cry.

An' even teacher comes 't see
Me on her way from school, an' 'en
She says 'tst won't be hard for me
When I come back to school again,
'Cuz she won't make my lessons long
Or keep me after school, an' 'en
'tst wants me to get well an' strong,
An' 'en she stoops an' kisses me.

An' 'tst's th' way you really know
How much they love you, when your head
'tst burnin' up an' you can't go
Nowhere except to stay in bed,
An' even if you're awful bad
An' hot with fever, why, you know,
It makes you feel 'tst sweet an' glad
Becus they all 'tst love you so.
—J. W. Foley in New York Times.

Packing the House.
"One of the worst tricks I ever made," said the theatrical manager, "was in the course of a tour with a particularly successful attraction in the far west. In a hotel I met an influential citizen who was good to me, and before we parted I had asked him to come to the show and to bring his family and I'd see that they were treated right."

"About 8 o'clock the next evening his head appeared at the box office window. 'Good evening; glad to see you,' said I, preparing to write out the pass. 'How many have you with you?'"

"Well," said he, 'some of my family are sick, so I've brought only forty-two.'"

"You see, I'd forgotten to remember that we were in Salt Lake City."—Woman's Home Companion.

The Enthusiastic Amateur.

Young Mother—Oh, George, the baby looks as though he were going to have a fit.

George—Fine! Keep him quiet until I get the camera ready.—Royal Magazine.

His Maiden Speech.
Very few persons acquit themselves nobly in their maiden speech. At a wedding feast recently the bridegroom was called upon, as usual, to respond to the given toast in spite of the fact that he had previously pleaded to be excused.

Blushing to the roots of his hair, he rose to his feet. He intended to imply that he was unprepared for speech-making, but, unfortunately, placed his hand upon the bride's shoulder and looked down at her as he stammered out his opening (and concluding) words: "This—er—thing has been thrust upon me."—Tit-Bits.

Dorothy's View of Shaving.
Dorothy is a tiny maid of four years whose father always gets shaved at the barber's. When on a visit recently she found an uncle who shaved himself. She watched this performance with intense but silent astonishment for two or three mornings, but finally broke out with: "What makes you do that, Uncle Will? My papa doesn't wash his face with a little broom and wipe it with a knife."—New York Press.

The Real Complaint.
Customer (trying to get waited on at night lunch counter)—Here, boy! The best thing you can do is to go to bed.

Inefficient Waiter—Oh, it don't hurt me to lose sleep.

Customer—No, I suppose not. But the thing I'm objecting to is that you don't seem to be losing any.—Judge.

Their Views.
First Tramp—De t'rey is dere's jes' so much work to be done in de world an' jes' so many people to do it.

Second Tramp—Dat's right, an' if some folks wants to hustle an' do more an dere share let 'em go ahead an' do it.—Brooklyn Life.

No Excuse For Them.
"They say there's a fool born every minute."

"But that isn't the worst of it."
